

A Legacy of Commitment

Shelton Plumbing has stood the test of time – proudly serving the families and businesses of Waco, Texas for more than 30 years. The business and its 38 employees have deep roots in its community, supporting local organizations such as the Boys and Girls Club of Waco and Compassion Ministries of Waco – demonstrating its commitment to service.

This longevity and service to others reflects President Rick Shelton's legacy in the industry. Shelton is a second-generation tradesman, a licensed Responsible Master Plumber, and a proud member of many industry associations.

It was at one of those association events more than 20 years ago where Shelton met Joe Hodes, beginning a long-lasting business relationship – and friendship.

Getting Off the Ground

In 2005, when Hodes learned of Shelton's challenges implementing effective inventory control, he immediately recommended Hodes Co's fledgling Stock Service System. Hodes rented a U-Haul, loaded the Stock Service System's shelving units, and made the trek with his two oldest sons from Kansas City, Missouri to Waco, Texas.

Once the units and bins were installed, Shelton and his team followed the five steps to inventory control:

5 STEPS TO INVENTORY CONTROL

- 1. Create space in your shop. Establish a 15'x12' area in your warehouse that can hold the shelving and bins for your Stock Service System.
- 2. Choose the right products to stock. Select from a preset industry recommended list of 580 parts to guide your SKUs.
- 3. Use the system. Stock Service System tracking software and barcode scanning make it easy to add or deduct inventory. But it's got to be adhered to like any other core business function.
- 4. Return unused stock. Don't keep products on your shelves that don't sell. Send them back to Hodes Co. for full credit.
- 5. Enjoy better cash flow and lower carrying costs. Reduce the amount of labor spent ordering and stocking.

Expect cash flow to increase and profits to rise.

After implementation, Shelton's team benefited from immediate impact – achieving overall target billable rates of 60 percent or more. Plus, they rarely make special trips to supply houses, spending more time directly serving customers.

Fueling Growth, Passing the Torch

The impact of the Stock Service System was profound. "The prices were better, so we started adding PVC and other products," Shelton said. In fact, Shelton Plumbing quickly outgrew the initial shelving units, so Shelton bought the building next door to his first warehouse and moved the Stock Service System there.

“It’s even cleaner and better than those first units twenty years ago,” said Shelton.

When a friend approached Shelton in early 2023 about buying his business, the individual, an electrician by trade, was immediately struck by the sophistication of inventory management.

“He asked how we keep guys out of the supply house, so I explained that the Stock Service System is a really good fit,” Shelton said. “It made an impression that everything was in order – he was impressed by the scanner, too. I explained it’s a good deal – otherwise, we wouldn’t have kept using it for 18 years.”

The Stock Service System helped Shelton feel comfortable selling, especially considering its ease of use.

“You don’t need to be a plumber to go out to the warehouse and order,” Shelton said. “In fact, I trained my daughter-in-law to order using the scanner and app – she makes sure the system keeps getting used.”

After implementation, we benefited from immediate impact – achieving overall target billable rates of 60 percent or more. Plus, we rarely make special trips to supply houses, spending more time directly serving customers.

Rick Shelton - Shelton Plumbing

Providing Peace of Mind

In the months following the sale of his business, Shelton has remained engaged in a consultative capacity but is looking forward to spending time with his growing family.

He and his wife, Fran, have three children and five grandchildren – three granddaughters and two grandsons, aged one through six – who keep them busy.

Whether spending time at their property in Crawford, at their lake house at Horseshoe Bay, or planning trips to Costa Rica and the British Virgin Islands, the Sheltons are ready to reap the benefits of growing their successful business.

Shelton is at peace with and proud of his professional legacy. “Everyone at Shelton Plumbing is still there – and they’re still happy,” Shelton said. “In fact, they’re already planning the company’s traditional, big Christmas dinner.”
