Nuts and Bolts of Distribution

by Joe Hodes

HodesCo is proud to stock over 10,000 in-stock contractor quality-packaged products backed by a 6-month price guarantee. Meet the purchasers who make our "Dedicated Service, Lower Prices" possible.

HodesCo's veteran purchasers - Jeff Heitman, Steve Leehy, and Theresa Smith - share their wisdom backed by 80-plus years of experience in the distribution industry.

> "Having business class inventory software is key for a wholesaler, numbers are everything. Purchasing is based on math, and math is math."

Inventory Control - Critical for Contractors and Wholesalers Alike

Hodes Co.'s expertise in inventory control – featured in our Stock Service System – is a result of decades of experience optimizing our own warehouse and systems.

Smith explains, "All warehouse items need to be seen as dollars, not just parts – they need to be treated like dollars."

Leehy agrees, adding, "You must control your inventory to be successful in the wholesale world. You can have shortages in one bin and overages in another, which usually means you have a shortage and/or overage somewhere else. If you can't keep track of and control your inventory, you probably won't last long in the distribution/wholesale business."

Balancing Inventory While Avoiding Bloat

Like contractors, wholesalers are constantly balancing the need to have the right item at the right time for the customer while avoiding bloated inventory.

In the past, remembers Heitman, "We bought much more product because supply chains were much less efficient." Thankfully, lead times have significantly decreased.

"We try to keep all products we sell in stock and ready to ship," shares Leehy. "To sell a new item to a customer requires that we stock it. If a customer needs it, they usually don't want to wait. With items that have sales history, we balance usage and lead-time to try to keep items in stock. Having items in stock keeps unnecessary freight costs from lowering margins."

Software to Manage Plumbing Hardware

Controlling inventory requires actionable data – which is where software changes the game.

"When I started purchasing," Heitman recalls, "we had an IBM system, but nearly everything was manual. Almost everything was handwritten. By the time you finished writing a report, it was time to start a new one!"

"Having business class inventory software is key for a wholesaler," says Leehy. "Numbers are everything." To put it simply, in Leehy's words: "Purchasing is based on math, and math is math."

Which numbers are most important? Smith highlights "data that you need, like usages, purchase history, lead times, minimum order requirements, package requirements and more." If circumstances change, "we can tweak the settings," such as service level, inventory classes, and buying parameters.

Each Vendor has a Story

Each Hodes Co. purchaser manages relationships with dozens of vendors and suppliers, all unique in their breadth of focus, fee structures, and freight minimums. Those relationships have become even more important to foster as the number of international suppliers has grown, reflects Heitman.

"With several hundred vendors," Smith explains, "you see a lot of variance in how other companies do business. Some are ideal, others require more maintenance."

Leehy notes that knowing how and when vendors' prices increase and identifying shortages as quickly as possible are critical to keeping stock on the shelf.

Weighing Freight's Importance

Because Hodes Co. pays for all customer deliveries on ALL orders within the continental US, including any backordered items, fill rates are critical in keeping freight costs low.

In Leehy's experience, "Freight is a huge cost for companies in the wholesale market. We pay to bring in the items, and we pay to send them out. Higher freight costs will affect the price of products faster than anything I have seen."

Like its cost, freight's impact on wholesalers will continue to grow. "Freight costs have continued to greatly increase in the last several years," observes Smith. "The need to buy FFA is greater now to avoid the extra shipping costs," which is "especially tough with smaller suppliers with which we don't have a lot of items."

Lessons Learned

Given the tenure of Hodes Co's purchasers, they have collectively learned many valuable lessons, most recently, courtesy of COVID and its accompanying supply chain disruptions.

In his 30-plus years of purchasing, Heitman says, "COVID was the worst" challenge to face; "luckily, we had better reports to see things coming in advance."

Whereas just in time inventory was the norm in years past, Smith explains, "COVID changed that with its supply chain issues. It was a wakeup call for a lot of companies."

For Leehy, the past few years have only reinforced the importance of "math, math, math – reports, reports, reports." In fact, "with COVID, you could see the shortages and price increases coming, so we modified settings and invested a lot in inventory."

As suppliers resolve their supply chains and a sense of normalcy returns, Heitman, Leehy, and Smith agree – it is an exciting time to be in distribution.

STRIP

CLOSET BOWL & URINAL CLEANER

REMOVES SCALE

The sure way to eliminate SCALE, LIME, RUST, SODIUM, MAGNESIUM, CALCIUM, URINARY SALTS, CONCRETE, PLASTER, or other water-bearing solids. DESTROYS ODORS.

STRIP, with RODINE 213, does not affect metals (except aluminum) and is harmless to vitreousware, pipes, and connections. Chrome plate and nickel WILL tarnish if not rinsed off immediately.

STRIP can be used full strength or diluted, depending on the cleaning application and the amount of deposit to be removed.

For Urinals and Toilet Bowls: Remove standing water. Pour about 12 ounces of STRIP into bowl and allow to stand 10 to 15 minutes. If stains and urinary deposits are also on the sides and under the flush rim, use a small hand mop or a rag wrapped around a toilet brush to clean the stained area. FLUSH THE BOWL SEVERAL TIMES.

For General External Cleaning: Place part or equipment to be cleaned in a glass, porcelain, crockery, or plastic container and cover completely with STRIP. Allow part to remain 15 minutes or until part is clean. In cleaning parts that are impractical to immerse, use a brush or mop to thoroughly apply STRIP until deposit or stain has been removed. WASH THOROUGHLY WITH WATER.

For General Internal Cleaning: For cleaning items such as hot water coils, unit heaters, etc., introduce STRIP through the appropriate opening. If this is not practical, a piece of pipe or tubing can be attached and filled with STRIP. When part is clean, DRAIN AND FLUSH WITH WATER.

For Cleaning Brick and Tile: Prepare a solution containing 1 part STRIP and 4 parts water. Use a brush dipped in the solution to scrub brick or tile facing. Wear goggles. USE RUBBER GLOVES and protect person and clothing. Do not apply to mortar. WASH THOROUGHLY WITH WATER.

After a short while decomposition takes place, causing the roots to slough away like rusty water.

ROOTROL has a spreading action like oil on water and will coat the entire inside of pipe through which it flows, that way affecting growth entering from top or bottom of sewer line.

- Eliminates:
- Water Syphoning

- Freon to freeze the lines

The replacement for "plumbers bread". Finally the Plumber has a low cost and highly effective way to solve the age old problem of having to wait for the water to drain before he can solder.

The Jet Swet tool eliminates the need to wait for the water to stop draining or siphoning before you can solder copper or glue PVC pipes. The tools insert through a valve or fitting to seal off the water so that they may be replaced, water free. When repairing pinholes in a water line, valves or unions can be installed to keep the water away from the repair. This new technique developed by a working master plumber makes repair and replacement work safe where there is a water siphoning danger. Works on most full port gate and ball valves. Also allows male and female fittings to be replaced or installed. Kit contains up to six sizes with carrying case. 1/2", 3/4", 1", 1-1/4", 1-1/2", 2".

LIME-LIFE ELEMENT SCREW-IN

13-1/2" Length 240 Volt 4500 Watts

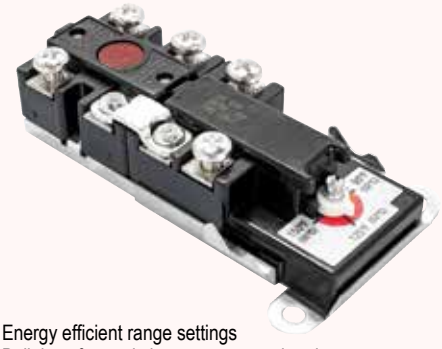

Highest grade nickel and chromium.
An ultra low-watt density element, the Lime-Life is designed to heat in lime and sand build-ups that will burn out ordinary elements. The Lime-Life also works best in areas where water has a high mineral content. Because of its sheath, the Lime-Life will even withstand dry-firing, one of the main reasons other elements fail.
