INVENTORY SUCCESS STORY

Inventory Technology, Training and Tenacity Take Old Line Plumbing Company to a Whole New Level

Lutz Plumbing has more than tripled in revenue and employees over the last seven years thanks to the vision and forward-thinking leadership of company president Amber Lutz-Sewell. Smarter inventory management, better financial insights, and improved online marketing have enabled new scalability and positioned the 102-year-old firm for even more future growth.

Amber Lutz-Sewell knows an opportunity when she sees one, and she saw it in Lutz Plumbing, the Shawnee, Kansas-based plumbing business her family has run since 1920.

For as long as she can remember, she's been fascinated by the hustle and bustle of the shop, the precision of the trade, and most of all, the longevity and tradition of a family business that has lasted for more than 100 years and four generations.

"This company has been a source of family pride for a long time," Lutz-Sewell said. "And when the opportunity came up for me to join it and carry on the name, I was excited and ready to help."

Lutz-Sewell's father, Jim Lutz, had run the business for many years on his own, and in 2006 he began considering his options for retirement and readying the business for sale and transition.

At the top of his list for improving the business was inventory management since it was (and still is) the second largest expense in the company after salaries and benefits, and the general disarray of the department was likely costing the company thousands in profits each month. If more cash flow and profits were needed to fund new growth, tighter inventory controls would do it.

> We've jumped in with both feet on our growth plan and we couldn't be happier with the results. And it's not just me driving this, our whole staff has been energized over the last five years which is the real reason we've grown. We couldn't do it without plumbing techs that really care, inventory partners like Hodes Co. that save us time and money, and customers who trust us with their projects.
> - Amber Lutz-Sewell, President, Lutz Plumbing

Hodes Co.'s Stock Service System, an auto-replenishment system for plumbing parts, fit the bill perfectly, and Lutz signed up as one of Hodes' first customers for the innovative service. As Jim Lutz was beginning to reap the benefits of improved inventory management and cash flow, Amber Lutz-Sewell joined the company and quickly immersed herself in the details. The new cash flow, she reasoned, could be a funding mechanism for expansion and growth.

But she needed additional expertise on the financial side and sought it out by joining the ScaleUP! program from KCSourceLink, a local hub for peers, connections and resources for entrepreneurship in Kansas City.

"One of the first things we did in the ScaleUP! program was look at our financials with a mentor provided by the program, and he said we had the cash flow, thanks in part to our inventory management system, and that we should add another truck and a plumber," Lutz-Sewell said. "So, we did, and that's what jumpstarted our growth."

Lutz-Sewell spent the next four months in the ScaleUP! program, and every aspect of the business was scrutinized and plans for improvements were made. Inventory, however, was one area that didn't require an overhaul, thanks to the Stock Service System from Hodes Co.

"Inventory management was easy to figure out – we just needed to keep doing what we were doing. We've worked with Hodes Co. for more than 50 years and have been customers of the Stock Service System for the last 15 years," Lutz-Sewell said. "Hodes makes it easy and automatic to buy and manage inventory. Everything's barcoded and tracked in our shop, we can place orders online, and we have exactly what we need for our trucks, our warehouse, and our customers."

Scaling Up for Growth Begins with Better Inventory Management

"We've jumped in with both feet on our growth plan and we couldn't be happier with the results," Lutz-Sewell said. "And it's not just me driving this, our whole staff has been energized over the last five years which is the real reason we've grown. We couldn't do it without plumbing techs that really care, inventory partners like Hodes Co. that save us time and money, and customers who trust us with their projects."

Lutz-Sewell said controlled growth has been the key. She has this advice for growing by design:

1. Focus on the fundamentals first. Great people and superior inventory management make everything else possible. Having the right inventory mix on hand by using Hodes Co.'s Stock Service System reduces drive times, increases billable hours, and preserves cash so it can be used for other growth investments such as marketing and advertising.
2. Pick an area for growth. Be specific about what you want to grow. Should it be customers? Cash flow? Profits? Service area?
3. Set a growth goal. Decide on success metrics that you want to achieve and then plan to monitor and measure them each month. Create a scoreboard that easy to update and understand.
4. Consult the experts and get help. Don't try to go it alone, you'll end up wasting time and money. Outsource inventory management, advertising, and marketing to people who know what they're doing and do it every day.
5. Review, revise and evaluate. Continually assess progress by tracking steps and measuring results. Adjust as needed.

Lutz-Sewell said inventory management and online marketing have made the biggest differences in profitability and new customer growth, respectively.

Lutz's website and search engine rankings have made the company more visible to residential and commercial customers all over the Kansas City Metro Area.

"Our expanded service area makes inventory management on our trucks more important than ever," Lutz-Sewell said. "With more ground to cover, we need to keep our techs on the road and headed to customers' homes and businesses, not supply houses."

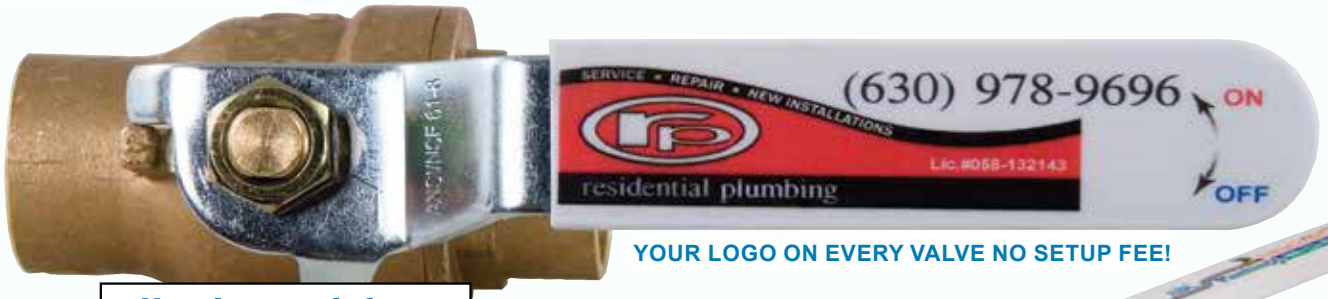

Lutz-Sewell is clearly proud, but also humble about the results. She's quick to mention that none of it would be possible without previous generations, good partners, and generous mentors.

"My family's courage and hard work is what started it all over 100 years ago, and I'm grateful for that every day," Lutz-Sewell said. "Along the way, we've also been fortunate to have good business partners like Hodes Co. on the inventory side, and entrepreneurial development programs to help us grow. It's been an amazing run and I look forward to keeping it going for many years to come."
